The 69th edition of the Cannes Film Festival just ended! As every year has seen parading on the red carpet many movie stars, to name a few: Robert De Niro, Julia Roberts, George Clooney, the American director Woody Allen and many supermodels.

A festival full of high fashion shows, film and charities events such as the renowned Gala De Grisonomo e l'Amfar, attempting to find a cure for AIDS.

Cannes Film Festival, introduce for the first time in history The Global Short Film Awards which took place at the Intercontinental Carlton (one of the most exclusive hotels of the Riviera) on May 21st!

Established in 2015, the GSFA recognizes excellence in short films under 15 minutes long in a variety of subjects, open to amateur and professional filmmakers from all around the world, to be specific more than 80 Countries; from 1400 submissions only 64 short films have been selected as finalists. All nominated films were chosen in each subject category by an international jury of professionals in the field of journalism and film critic.

The credit for this great success goes to festival director Andres Aquino which is also the
